

AT HIS OLD HOME.

The J. J. Man Visits the Old Homestead and Leaves for a Few Days by the Seaside.

Only those who have exchanged one home for another can appreciate the pleasures of returning to the old homestead, where reminders of days gone by present themselves on every hand. Some writer has said that the fox never forgets the first burrow, but returns to it though years have passed. So it is with us all, and even though trials, disappointments and sorrows make our first years full of grief, yet there is no spot in the broad universe so dear to us as where father and mother lived, and where our childhood days were spent. There is no recollection so vivid as those of our youthful days and the minutest details of each trifling incident are as fresh to the memory, and even more so, than those things which happened yesterday, or not so long. These recollections and these memories caused a desire to visit my old home in the country, which I had farwelled to nearly eight years ago, and I could not think of returning to Kentucky without doing so. The old mountain road, which passes the home of my former days, presented to my view many changes that have been wrought since I traveled it, but still there were left a number of things that suggested incidents which were pleasant to think of. As I drove on toward the old plantation, the road, though fearfully muddy, and at places nearly impassable, was quickly sped, each bend and turn adding interest to the very interesting drive. Before a thought of weariness had been felt the 25 miles had been traveled and I was in sight of the dear old place. Alighting and knocking at the door, to ask permission to look around, I was met by the owner, who, although a number of my school days were spent with him, knew me not. Making myself known to him was the next thing in order, and I did so. Of course he granted my request and in a short while I was wandering over field and forest "monarch of all I surveyed." It was an inexpressibly delightful privilege and although some thoughts suggested by the various things of interest were sad ones, still it gave me pleasure even to recall those instances which carried me back to the days when my parents were with the living. Time had changed the dear old home wherein many a joyful reunion had taken place, but not changed sufficiently to make me forget those happy days, which yet lie on my mind and which time can have no effect upon. As I looked at the old place I was reminded of the following lines, which are full of meaning and very appropriate:

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood,
When fond recollections present them to view.
The orchard, the meadow, the deep tangled wilderness,
And every loved spot that my infancy knew."
Another sweet privilege was to lay a flower on the graves of the father and mother once so dear to me, but now gone the way of the good. A thousand recollections came over me as I stood by these graves, one of which was covered with fresh sod when I last looked upon it, but now it had sunken with age. Sad as it was, I was very thankful to be there and shall look back to the time when years have come and gone.

I attended Sunday-school at St. Peter's church, where I used to go, but death had played its part, families had moved away and the children of those days had grown out of my recollection and I was indeed a stranger. However a few yet remained, including the treasurer of the school, who would keep each copper or coin of any kind, and who would not even give change out of that money, but would turn it in just as he had received it. I spent a very enjoyable Sabbath morning and watched with interest the zeal and energy of the good superintendent and his efficient corps of teachers, and the happy faces of the young America as they received the picture cards, awarded them for perfect lessons.

Perfectly natural, I suppose it was, for me to wish a repetition of the days spent in that good old neighborhood, which God seemed to smile upon socially, but I was not financially, but a thought of Kentucky's blue-grass and thousands of other advantages quickly removed any inclination to regret that I had chosen for my abiding place the State noted for pretty women, fine horses, etc.

So far my farlough of two weeks has been delightful in the extreme and it will be with a slight feeling of regret that I will leave Virginia, notwithstanding no one's love for Kentucky exceeds my own. I am again back in Richmond, but will go to Old Point Comfort Friday and spend a few days enjoying the ocean breezes and other advantages that that elegant resort affords. E. C. W.

An exchange says: "Gallium is the most valuable of metals, being worth $3,250 an ounce." We have noticed that the first four letters of the word were sometimes worth as much as $3,000 an ounce.—Arcola Record.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Mr. Samuel P. Scott obtained license yesterday to marry Mrs. Nannie Lambert, a very attractive and accomplished widow, of Kingsville.

—News comes from Fort Scott, Kas., that Miss Mamie, daughter of E. R. Chennault, late of this place, is to marry a wealthy young lawyer on the 15th of next month. Miss Mamie is a lady of splendid appearance and as lovable as she is handsome, and the fortunate man who has won her will be envied by more than one of her old Stanford beaux.

—Mr. Isaac G. Terry and Mrs. Eliza J. Carrier came to town the other evening and were married in the parlor of the Portman House by the Rev. Ben Helm. Mrs. Carrier is the widow of the man who was killed at Pulaski Station in a collision on the Cincinnati Southern Oct. 20th last and who compromised with the company on the payment of $5,000 for his loss. She is a handsome woman and seems to enter fully into the spirit of the song, "Let the world wag as it will, I'll be gay and happy still," for she takes up with a new love in less than six months after her old was taken from her.

HUSTONVILLE.

—The rescue of the passengers of the Denmark—now don't say Denmark—and the overwhelming invasion of Oklahoma, in addition to the prevailing mania that impels so many men to murder wives and sweethearts and then commit dog-icide, fully engage our attention. I was exasperated against your classical B. M. for making me to appear as quoting the monstrosity "to Plato's dark domain," until I learned that said B. M. was engaged in showing "Ole Virginny" his "extraordinary countenance." Be wary Ed; the hopes of many cling around you, and the prayers of loving hearts attend you.

—The change in the atmosphere seems to militate against business activity. In fact laziness, or more elegantly—lassitude—seems to be an epidemic. Even the disposition to keep up the amenities of society has nearly died out. The whole burden of gallantry now rests on the shoulders of three devoted martyrs—very young, but said to be weaned and well of it, who are doing their work heroically. Apropos of laziness, the most triumphant vindication of a claim to excellence in this beastly virtue, appears in the case of the preacher who recently gave instructions on his death bed that he should be buried on the highest peak of a mountain, in order that he might have a short distance to travel after the resurrection.

The Winchester Sun, a republican paper might not have meant it, but this is what it said:

"Set a thief to catch a thief, then if you want to know the true inwardness of matters at our State capital put some hawk-eyed Republican in, and you can bet that there will be an airing of the dilapidated linen about the old State House."

The editor of the Sun would doubtless get mad if some one should nominate him for a State office on the republican ticket.—Paducah Standard.

Our French friend who comes in and sits on the corner of our desk and reads our exchanges says he can not get the hang of the English language. "Look at this," he says, "here is one story about a boy. It says: 'His mother kissed him and he kissed her back.' What for he kiss her back? And here is one sentence worse and worse: 'He went fishing and his mother whipped him on his return.' My! my! What is such a funny language?"—Washington Post.

Lake Worth, Florida, is said to be so full of fish that it is nearly impossible to move a boat through them, and they are taken so easily that there is no fun in it.

Listen—a song of rejoicing,
Hearts that were heavy are glad,
Women, look up and be hopeful,
There's help and there's health to be had,
Take courage, O weak ones despondent,
And drive back the foe that you fear,
With the weapon that never will fail you,
O, be of good cheer,

for when you suffer from any of the weaknesses, "irregularities," and functional derangements, peculiar to your sex, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription you can put the enemy of ill-health and happiness to rout. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. See bottle-wrapper.

For all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels take Dr. Pierce's Peppermint. One a dose.

What On Earth

Is the reason people will not, can not or do not see any difference in cheap abstrusities put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world-wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at equal price? No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for Begg's Blood Purifier and Blood-Maker, and every bottle that does not do its work will cost you nothing. A. R. Penny, druggist.

How can Parents

Allow their children to cough and strain and cough and calmly say "Oh, it is only a little cold," and keep giving them cheap and dangerous medicines until they are down with the lung fever or consumption, when they can be so easily relieved by Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup? It has no superior and few equals. A. R. Penny, druggist.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—Some men have made several tests of a fire engine on the streets recently. Their aim is to sell it to the town, but don't think they will effect a sale.

—A man with a "Flying Dutchman" is raking in the nickels of the small boy and the negro here now. He has been here a week and averaged about $20 a day.

—The 30th will be observed by most everyone. The banks and stores will all be closed. Some of the clerks will go fishing and others will take in Lexington and other places.

—Mr. W. L. Reid and wife have gone to Indiana to visit relatives. Judge M. J. Durham and wife have arrived from Washington and are stopping with his son, B. J. Durham.

—Mr. B. F. Perkins has the Harding Flats furnished and will move in a few days and commence hotel keeping. Mrs. Akin will keep a boarding-house in her property from which Mr. P. moves.

—Mr. James R. Marrs, postmaster, has gone into the book and job printing business with W. B. Nichols, former editor of the Olive Branch. They have moved their outfit to the room next to the postoffice.

—An extract from the town ordinance has been handed to our business men, which forbids them sweeping any loose papers or rubbish of any kind on the streets. This is right, but our business men should not wait to be reminded of it.

—The strawberry supper given by the ladies of the Baptist church at Mr. Fox's Art Gallery was a decided success. The sum realized was about $60. Their supply of ice cream and strawberries gave out or else they would have made more. The money will go towards buying a new carpet for the church. Bless the dear ladies, how would the churches do without them? Go without carpets anyhow.

—Next Sunday will be "show day" with the young ladies. Each will try to surpass the other in a pretty dress or hat. I will say I think the styles in dress goods and hats are beautiful this spring and the Danville girls know how to display them. I do hope the present styles in parasols will not last longer than this season, however if they do go the handles can be used for fishing poles next season.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—This will be our week of picnics. —Mr. Henry Noel will most likely sell the homestead he is now occupying to his brother, Rev. R. K. Noel.

—J. Y. Robinson recently sold to a Tennessee party a horse for $200 and besides made a sale of 32 hogs at 4¢ cents. —The democrats had a meeting Saturday evening for the purpose of appointing delegates to the convention to be held on the 8th of May in Louisville.

—The new house lately occupied by Geo. D. Burdett and family is soon to be occupied by H. M. Ballou and wife. It is now having an addition in the shape of a new room added to it.

—The sermon Sunday morning by Elder J. C. Frank at the Christian church was certainly one of the best we have heard him preach on the "Graves of the Dead" or Abel being dead yet speaketh. The day being inclement not as many as usual were present to hear the able discourse.

—Elder Jesse Walden is now in London holding a protracted meeting and up to this date has had a number of conversions and still the good work continues. Brother Walden has been evangelizing most of the year. He is working most faithfully in the Master's vineyard.

—A party of Lancaster men expect to form a brick and tile company soon at Middleboro. As much as $25,000 has already been invested in the new enterprise. This last investment is conclusive that our citizens, who have already invested in that city have so much faith in the continued growth of the place that they are willing to invest more capital for the advancement of Middleboro.

—Since the Internal Revenue office has not been decided as yet to any place, we wish Lancaster would come forth gloriously and win the office. We have a number here that were in the office before who filled their respective places most creditably to themselves and to Lancaster. It certainly would be a nice thing for L. if she could get it.

—Dr. J. B. Kinnaird left Saturday to be absent a week or ten days in New York City and on his return will stop at Washington. Rev. Clarence Crawford, a recent graduate of the Theological Seminary at Danville, was in our city Friday. H. W. Grant left yesterday for a recreation of several days fishing in the Cumberland. Dr. Frazee and wife, of Richmond, were in our midst last week, visiting friends. Miss Marion Wolford was here last week visiting relatives. Robert McKee and Howard Marrs, of Danville, were in Lancaster Saturday. Dr. A. S. Price, of Stanford, was the guest of his mother Sunday. Prof. J. C. Gordon left Monday for Pewee Valley. The Misses Beasley, of Lincoln, are visiting Miss Bettie Lear, in this county. W. G. Dunlap and wife are in Lexington on a visit to relatives. C. W. Sweeney has gone to

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town. I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from pain and soreness and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth and removed completely all disease and pain. Try a bottle, 50¢ and $1, at A. R. Penny's Drug Store.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, and am now on my third bottle, and able to overcome the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middlewear, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption I would have died of Lung Trouble. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at A. R. Penny's drugstore.

Best of All

Cough medicine, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the greater demand than ever. No prostration for Throat and Lung Trouble is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble that, whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself by a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat, which is difficult to breathe. I have tried a great many remedies, but none does so well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which always gives prompt relief in return of my old complaint."—Ernest A. Hepler, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terre Haute, La.

"I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy

For Home Use.

I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults."—Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the lungs. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered my case hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—Samuel Griggs, Waukegan, Ill.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a cough, night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, pains in chest and sides, and was so prostrated as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am as well and sound as ever."—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.
